Policy Statement

The vice chancellor for federal and state relations within The Texas A&M University System (system) Office of Federal and State Relations is responsible for preparing and recommending to the chancellor of the system a public policy and legislative affairs program that communicates to the executive and legislative branches of federal and state government the needs and interests of the system members.

Reason for Policy

This policy provides the federal and state public policy makers with the information they need concerning the teaching, research and service of the system's members.

Procedures and Responsibilities

The vice chancellor for federal and state relations will coordinate the system's federal and state public policy and legislative affairs program. These federal and state public policy and legislative affairs programs shall not be construed as lobbying, but are rather a legitimate function of supplying needed information.
